Brief description of how the ticked attributes have been addressed:

Excellent communication skills with a sensitivity to speaking with and listening to non-native English speakers – by using vocabulary commonly existing in international English;

A capacity to develop new skills and behaviours according to role requirements – by using material outside of the scheduled learning scope;

An ability to negotiate and influence clients across the globe from different cultures – possibly, final product may be used by anyone;

An ability to form professional, global networks – perhaps; project may require some consultations which may be great opportunity to establish professional network;

An openness to/respect of a range of perspectives from around the world – by careful research and adopting scientific approach in modelling the mechanisms of the application;

Multi-cultural learning agility (i.e. able to learn in any culture or environment) – as I am Polish studying on English university I mind this attribute as proven.
